

October 2015

Greetings from the Last Frontier!

As the last quarter of the year is before us, our time back in America continues to march on. Last month was busy for Emily including eye surgery to running a half marathon. Now we are enjoying a slow down in Alaska as the rain falls and the temperature drops. We even experienced a light dusting of snow and frost on the windshield.

September started with a family camping trip over Labor Day weekend as we celebrated Emily's birthday. Just a few days prior, Emily underwent a successful lasik eye surgery. There were no complications with the procedure and now she has 20/15 vision. Praise God! A few short weeks later, Emily was running her first half marathon with her sister-in-law. She now has her goals set higher to run a full marathon before we return to PNG!

We have officially begun the 'coming to a coffee house near you' road trip. We left Montana for the reds, yellows, and oranges of autumn in Alaska. Before we left Montana we had an impromptu visit to another church in Havre. It was great to visit and share the ministry of PBT in PNG. Now we are visiting Alaska (Tyler's last stomping grounds before PNG) where we are enjoying time with family and friends. We are experiencing a typical Fall in Alaska with a mix bag of some sun and lots of rain, even a snowflake or two. The Fall colors are beautiful and stunning along with the snowcapped mountain tops as a background. Who wouldn't want to visit Alaska in the Fall?

While we travel through the U.S. we are still hearing reports of life in Papua New Guinea from our team. Currently PNG is going through a drought and we are asking everyone to pray for RAIN. Many Papua New Guinean's depend on the food from their gardens for their daily lives, without rain the fear of not providing for their daily needs grow stronger.

During the month of October the Mborena Kam editing team will be gathering again to work on editing the book of John. Please join us in praying for these men and their families, particular in this time of drought. Pray also for our teammate Lindy, as she works on the editing process with these men. While the team of men work on the editing of John, the recording team will return to continue recording the New Testament.

Our travels in October will take us from Alaska across the country to Richmond, Virginia. We will be making stops in Colorado, Kansas, Texas, Missouri, Indiana and Virginia all between the dates of October 9-31. It will be great to be reunited with many friends and family along the way as well as spend time meeting new faces along the way.

Pray for travel mercies for us as we travel across the country in October. Pray for spiritual and physical protection Mborena Kam editing and recording team and their families as they work this month. Pray for our physical, mental and spiritual health. Pray for safety and protection of Julie, who is house sitting for us while we are away.

Together in Christ,

Tyler and Emily Hewitt
